But he checked another candidate for possible target schedule and the week of June 22nd was discussed as a second candidate. Inhwon Choi suggested that we defer our decision on the target schedule until next week's call.

3. Operational State and Command
  - A. Regarding to one of Seungchul's email questions, Stefano Toppan commented that his team needs an internal investigation to answer whether or not the robot cleaner belongs to "Cyclic Operations" appliances.
  - B. Tomoki Ogawa asked about the meaning of "Not Possible" in the operational state & command transition matrix and it is a mandate or not.
  - C. Electrolux team answered that "Not Possible" means that this transition make no sense, so the appliance may ignore it or reply an error. This transition matrix is an example to help developers' understanding. They will provide an update to that document.
  - D. Inhwon Choi asked whether or not "Not Cyclic" appliance can support the DelayedState.
  - E. Electrolux team answered if TargetTimeToStart is not equal to 0, OperationState of "Not cyclic operation" appliances may be "Off", and that of "Cyclic operation" appliances OperationState should be "DelayedStart".
  - F. Tomoki Ogawa and Inhwon Choi commented that current description of "DelayedStart" is not enough to explain both case of Cyclic and Not Cyclic appliance.
  - G. Electrolux will provide a revised description of the "DelayedStart".
